VeriClean

Prove attendance and replace manual signatures in bathrooms with a simple tap of a smart phone.

Q. Can you really track if bathrooms are cleaned every hour according to the signatures?

With Totalmobile VeriClean, replace those outdated checklists with NFC tags and mobilise your workforce. Service workers simply scan a tag and submit details on the work carried out so you can track and report on cleanings.

Compliance

Using VeriClean, businesses have greater visibility that bathrooms have been attended, cleaned and restocked, ensuring compliance. Prove cleaning SLAs are met and have all the information at hand should it be needed for auditing purposes or to understand what happened should there be a complaint.

Consistency

VeriClean delivers reliable reporting for you and/or your customers, improving the consistency of service and offering an enhanced customer experience. With intuitive forms, information is easily captured in a reliable format replacing paper-based processes. Additionally, VeriClean allows workers to record any issues or incidents such as broken mirrors or water leaks.

Capacity

Increase your workforce capacity by identifying new opportunities to generate more work with an efficient managed workforce. VeriClean allows you to easily record accurate information and the reporting analysis helps you identify key trends to ensure staff time is used effectively.

Cost

With VeriClean, bathroom checks can be completed efficiently, reducing overall costs by effective management of your resources. By analysing the reports produced you can achieve improved cost savings overall, for example you could identify trends in stock requirements such as how much soap, towels, toilet rolls etc, are needed.

“ Verifying cleaning records is now simple and more reliable than ever. ”

We've all seen it, the signed and dated checklist that informs customers when and how often a bathroom in a hotel, airport or hospital has been cleaned. The observant among us notice it's the same writing with the same colour pen, throughout the day. How can we make these duties more accountable and reportable? If a patron registers a complaint, wouldn't it be nice to know you have a full audit of the cleaning for that bathroom, to be better informed to handle the situation?

What is the solution?

Simply replace those paper checklists with NFC tags. Mobile workers can scan the tag to prove they were there, and submit a simple report detailing items cleaned and/or stock refilled. Additionally, should there be any issues with the bathroom that might need someone with specific skills, such as a broken mirror or a water leak, the worker can report the incident.
