Using your existing solutions to assist you during the COVID-19 Threat.

As the threat of COVID-19 continues across the UK, organisations are introducing a range of new processes to help ensure the safety of their staff and customers.

This week we learnt of a major Totalmobile customer that has starting using our Mobilise solution as part of this process.

As an existing Totalmobile customer, we are available to assist you in any way possible, as you implement new procedures to help reduce the spread of the virus. We believe that our solutions, that you are already using within your organisation, can be easily and quickly adapted to enhance these processes.

Below are a number of ways in which you can use your existing capabilities to help deal with the COVID-19 outbreak.

How can you utilise your existing capabilities in Mobilise?

- Quickly build health and safety forms into visit workflows to ensure staff have taken all necessary precautions before starting a job
- Introduce a facility / building inspection form that enables staff to assess all relevant facilities, ensuring that they are appropriately equipped
- Deploy a form that improves the monitoring of stock usage and streamline the ordering of new cleaning materials

How can you utilise your existing capabilities in Optimise?

- Recalibrate your Optimise solution to ensure that you are more resilient to potential staff shortages and continue to deal with working demands
- Increase the flexibility of your solution to rapidly deploy staff according to need
- Aid the prioritisation of work and maximise the skills of the available workforce

All the above capabilities are featured within your existing solutions and can be taken advantage of via simple configurations.

Should you be interested in any of the above, or if you have any other requirements that we can assist you with, please contact us via the details below.
